The Mishnah had stated: his mishap, his doubt, etc.

Rava said: Do not suppose [that the meaning of ‘doubtful’ is] that there is a doubt whether there was a zivah or not. In point of fact, the zivah must be a certain one, the doubt being whether it was due to an issue of semen or whether it was caused by an independent zivah flow. Once tumah has been established, if there is a doubt, he is tamei. (65b4 – 66a1)

Discharges

The Mishnah had stated that his seminal discharge is ruled to be tamei once he is a confirmed zav.

The Gemora asks: With respect to what is it considered tamei? It cannot mean in regards to touch, for why should the semen of a tamei be any different than that of a tahor (whose semen can also contaminate through touch)? Rather, the Mishnah is teaching us that the semen of one who is a confirmed zav can contaminate through carrying (even if it is not touched directly).

The Gemora asks: Who is the Tanna that holds like this? If you will say that it is in accordance with this Tanna (Rabbi Yehoshua), like we learned in the following Baraisa: Rabbi Eliezer said: The seminal discharge from a confirmed zav will not contaminate through carrying. Rabbi Yehoshua, however, said: It will contaminate through carrying, for it is impossible for it not to contain in it some drops of zivah. It emerges that even Rabbi Yehoshua said that it can contaminate through carrying only because of the drops of zivah; however, he never said this in regards to pure semen! (The Mishnah is referring to pure semen, so it cannot be following Rabbi Yehoshua’s opinion.)

Rather, Rav Adda bar Ahavah said: The Mishnah is teaching us that (even though we learned that an issue of zivah within twenty-four hours of a seminal discharge is not regarded as being tamei, for we attribute the zivah to the previous seminal discharge, here, when he is a confirmed zav) we do not attribute the zivah to the previous seminal discharge (and it is ruled to be tamei).

Rav Pappa suggested the following logic before Rava: The reason why zivah after a seminal discharge is not regarded as a zivah is because we assume that the zivah was due to his weakened body (from his seminal emission; and therefore, when he is a confirmed zav, this leniency does not apply because the halacha is that once he experiences a zivah two times, the third time will be tamei even it is issued through an accident).

Rava asked him from the following Mishnah: One, who converts and experiences a zivah discharge, is immediately tamei (even if while he was an idolater, he experienced a seminal emission). Why should this be? There is no greater sickness than this (he now for the first time is concerned about the observance of mitzvos, and we should certainly be able to attribute the zivah emission because of this weakness; evidently, it is not on account of any logic, but rather, it is based upon a Scriptural dictum, and this is applicable only to a Jew, but not to an idolater; accordingly, we should hold that a zivah after a seminal emission should not be tamei even if he is a confirmed zav!)

Rather, the Gemora concludes that the issue discussed in the Mishnah is a matter of a Tannaic dispute. For we learned in the following Baraisa: The seminal emission of a zav can contaminate through carrying if it was experienced within twenty-four hours (from the zivah). Rabbi Yosi says: It is only if the seminal emission occurred on that very same day. [The Mishnah which taught us that the seminal emission of a zav can contaminate through carrying is speaking about a case where it occurred on that day or within twenty-four hours.]

Wherein does their controversy lie? — In respect of the point raised by Shmuel. For Shmuel noted the following contradiction. It is written: If there be among you any man that is not tahor by reason of an incident by night [etc.], and it is written [further], when evening comes on he shall immerse himself in water. The one who says twenty-four hours infers this from ‘when evening comes on,’ and the other infers it from, ‘an incident by night’. Now to the one who infers it from ‘when evening comes on,’ [it may be objected] it is written, ‘an incident by night’? — He will reply that it is customary for an emission to occur at night. (66a1 – 66a2)

Mishnah

Shmuel was a nazir, according to Rabbi Nehorai who says: It is written: A moreh (razor) shall not pass over his head. It is written by Shimshon “and moreh” (when the Heavenly angel met his mother and informed her about the upcoming birth of Shimshon, and that he will be a nazir), and it written by Shmuel “and moreh.” Just as the “moreh” by Shimshon is in reference to being a nazir (and that a razor shall not pass over his head), so too, the “moreh” which is said by Shmuel is in reference to being a nazir.

Rabbi Yosi said: But behold the word “moreh” is intended to mean that he will not fear another human being!

Rabbi Nehorai responded to him: It is already written: And Shmuel said, “How can I go and Shaul will hear and will kill me”? Evidently, he did fear other human beings (and if the other verse meant that he will not fear other people, we would be compelled to say that the prophecy was not fulfilled). (66a2 – 66a3)

Reciting or Answering

Rav said to Chiya his son: Grab the cup and recite the blessing. [He was advising him to be the leader of the Grace after Meals; by being a speedster, he would be gaining.] And so Rav Huna said to Rabbah his son: Grab the cup and recite the blessing.

The Gemora asks: Does this mean that it is preferable to be the one reciting the blessing (and not the one who responds, Amen)! But we learned in a Baraisa: Rabbi Yosi said: It is greater to answer “Amen” than to recite the blessing (for he is concluding the mitzvah – Tosfos)! And Rabbi Nehorai said: I make an oath that this is true! Proof to this is from the fact that in battle, it is customary to send out the weak soldiers to wage the war initially, and the strong ones gain the victory!

The Gemora answers: It is a matter of Tannaic dispute. For we learned in a Baraisa: More reward is given to the one who recites the blessing.

Rabbi Elozar said in the name of Rabbi Chanina: Torah scholars increase peace in the world, as it says: And all your children shall be taught of the Lord; and great shall be the peace of your children. (66a3 – 66b)

Shmuel's Nezirus

The Mishnah had stated: Shmuel was a nazir, according to Rabbi Nehorai who says: It is written: A moreh (razor) shall not pass over his head. It is written by Shimshon “and moreh” (when the Heavenly angel met his mother and informed her about the upcoming birth of Shimshon, and that he will be a nazir), and it written by Shmuel “and moreh.” Just as the “moreh” by Shimshon is in reference to being a nazir (and that a razor shall not pass over his head), so too, the “moreh” which is said by Shmuel is in reference to being a nazir.

In the sefer Imrei Daas, he asks that it is evident from the verses in Shmuel (I, 15:33) that Shmuel became tamei from Agag. How was he permitted to do that, if he was a nazir?

He answers that it would seem from our Gemora that he was a nazir similar to Shimshon. The Rambam (Hilchos Nezirus 3:13) writes that Shimshon was not a full-fledged nazir, for he didn't take a vow of nezirus. Rather, it was a Heavenly angel who pronounced that he should be a nazir. The laws of his nezirus were as follows: He was prohibited from drinking wine and he was forbidden from taking a haircut; however, he was permitted to contaminate himself from the dead. These halachos are learned from an Oral tradition. Accordingly, we can understand how Shmuel, as well, was permitted to become tamei from a corpse.

DAILY MASHAL

Torah Scholars Increasing Peace

Rabbi Elozar said in the name of Rabbi Chanina: Torah scholars increase peace in the world, for it is said: And all your children shall be disciples of Hashem; and abundant shall be the peace of your sons.

The commentators ask: Why does it say that the Torah scholars will increase peace in the world? The Gemora should say that they will make peace in the world.

The Kedushas Tziyon explains based on a Gemora Kiddushin (30b) where Rabbi Chiya bar Abba states that even a father and son, or a teacher and student who are engaged in Torah study will become enemies with one another (as they debate the intricacies of Talmudical law), but they will not budge from there until they become friends with each other.

It emerges that Torah scholars are increasing peace in the world because every time they are engaged in Torah study, they become temporary enemies and then, they bring about peace with each other. Ordinary friends remain friends, and are not constantly making peace. Torah scholars; the more they learn, the more they are increasing peace.

Berachos, Nazir, Yevamos, Kerisos

Rabbi Elazar's dictum concludes three tractates aside from our tractate: Berachos, Yevamos and Nazir. It is fascinating to discover that their initials spell banayich (“your sons”) (Peninim Mishulchan HaGera, 334).
